Midwest Heating & Cooling

Presenter Travis Herzog, Comfort Advisor at Midwest Heating & Cooling, has extensive experience working with heat pumps of all varieties. Travis has an background in chemistry and pre-med but changed his course of study and enjoys the technical aspects of HVAC technology.

Travis has two daughters, ages 10 and 14. He spends most of his free time with them...and keeping up with them!

For this seminar, Travis will present "Cold Climate Heat Pumps - Do They Really Work?"

He will provide an overview of cold climate heat pump systems and their impact on the HVAC community today and going forward. Travis will address how proper installation and the different types of systems installed are a major factor when assessing how these units operate in cold climates.
